ABOUT ME

My coding journey started in my teens when MySpace and Tumblr was at its peak. I wondered how the creation of layouts worked, so I tinkered with HTML until I figured out how things functioned. I enjoyed putting the pieces together. After those websites died, I stopped coding. Now, after finding out there are careers for what I had enjoyment in as a teenager, I expeditiously made the switch from my decade of experience in Customer Service. Besides coding, I also love photography, music, and trying out new restaurants.
